SHAKE, SIR JULIAN.

Pauncefote Presents His Credentials

to Harrison and They Form

A MUTUAL ADMIRATION SOCIETY.

The Minister Speaks of the Ties Uniting the

Two Nations and PAYS A TRIBUTE TO GEN. WASHINGTON.

The President Beturns the Greeting and Compli the Minister

Sir Julian Pauncefote yesterday presented his credentials as British Minister to President Harrison. He referred in warm terms to the common ties uniting the two great nations, and gave assurances of the good will felt by England toward the United States. The President replied in a neat little speech in which he complimented the Minister and the power he represents.

WASHINGTON, May 3 .- Secretary Blaine appeared at the State Department this morning looking well and showing no traces of his recent illness. Soon after his arrival Sir Julian Pauncefote, the new British Minister, came to the Department, accompanied by Mr. Edwardes, the Charge d'Affaires, and Secretary Herbert, with several other attaches. The new Minister was introduced to Secretary Blaine, who immediately proceeded with the party to the White House, where Sir Julian was formally presented to the President. He said:

Mr. President, sir: I have the honor to place in your hands a letter from the Queen, my august sovereign, accrediting me as her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plentpotentiary to the United States. In fulfilling this pleasing duty I desire to express my sense of the distinguished character and special importance of the mission which Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to confide to me, and to assure you that no effort shall be wanting on my part worthiny to discharge so great a trust. My utmost endeavors will be devoted to the object which Her Majesty and her people have so much at heart, the maintenance of the relations of PEACE AND FRIENDSHIP which happily subsist between Great Britain and the United States, and the strengthening, if possible, of the many ties which unite these two great English-speaking countries, destined to exercise the most beneficial influence for the advancement of civilization and the pro-motion of happiness throughout the world. I believe that the citizens of the United States reciprocate the feelings of amity and good will I have expressed and are animated by the most kindly sentiments toward Her Majesty and her people. I am also convinced that in my relations with the Government of the great country over which you preside I shall meet with shat spirit of justice and conciliation for which her statesmen are so eminently distinguished. Such qualities it will ever be my carnest wish to emulate, and the circumstance that I enter upon my diplomatic functions at the time of the Washington Centennial, when a national tribute is being offered in this country to the greatest of her sons, will ever be associated in my memory with the distinguished honor I have had this day of being presented to the chief of the States.

I beg, sir, in conclusion, to offer you the assurance of my highest respect and esteem.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S REPLY. The President replied:

Mr. Minister: The pleasure I have in re ceiving from your hands the letters whereby Her Britannic Majesty accredits you as her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipoten-tiary to the United States is enhanced by the carnest assurances of good will with which you have accompanied their delivery. It is gratify-ng that Her Majesty's choice of a representa-ive, charged with the expressions of sincere aity between the two nations, has fallen upon e whose official station for many years past s induced an intimate acquaintance with the lations between the United States and the itish,Empire.

I adminippy to assure you in return of no less salous efforts on my part, and on the part of nose who are associated with me in the Goverament to perpetuate relations of peace and friendship between the United States and Great Britain. It is especially pleasing to know that you, as the representative of the British people, have been an interested and friendly

To yourself, personally, Mr. Minister, I am glad to offer the greeting due to your distin-guished reputation and eminent qualities. A HEARTLESS HUSBAND.

He Refuses to Allow His Wife to See the Corpse of Their Little Son.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. EASTON, May 8 .- A sad case of domestic trouble came to light to-day. Some time ago John Kocher and his wife, living in the western part of the town, separated, and Mr. Kocher took his children and went to son, 9 years old, died, and Mrs. Kocher, when she called at the house to see the body was refused admission. Then she appeared to allow Mrs. Kocher to see her child. This he refused to do. The funeral of the child took place at 2 o'clock this Kocher again came to 'Squire Otto and begged him to aid her in her attempt to see her dead child before it was buried. The justice then sent Constable Osterstook with her to the house. Mr. Kocher became very ugly and was held by the constable while Mrs. Kocher went into the adjoining room to see the re-mains. While she was bending over the body, kissing it and crying bitterly, Kocher broke away from the officer and picked up the lid of the coffin and was about to cover body, when the constable again grabbed him and put him in a corner. During the heartrending scene there was the wildest confusion among the people who had gathered to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Gehringer Pulled it Out of Her Throat and Then Fainted.

GRIMSVILLE, PA., May 3.-Mrs. Augustus Gehringer, of this place, a few days ago feit a tickling sensation in her throat, followed by a sickening, suffocating sensation. The woman was almost strangled, and fell into a dead taint. Upon recovering coninto a dead faint. Upon recovering consciousness she wrapped her apron around her thumb and forefinger, and, foreing these members into her throat, felt something moving, which she quickly grasped and pulled out.
